BIBLICAL PRAYER – PART 9

Though Manasseh was one of the most evil kings in the history of Israel, when he humbled himself and prayed to the Lord in affliction, his prayers were answered. The Lord used affliction or His divine judgment as a means to correct Manasseh. Then, we must know that not all afflictions are bad. If God answered Manasseh's prayers, how much more He must be interested in our prayers. I wonder whether we have not received because we have not asked (cf. James 4:2b). Manasseh's prayer must be a good challenge to all of us to pray.

Thirteenth, even pagans expect that prayer must be offered for their sake. Ezra 6:10, "That they may offer sacrifices of sweet savours unto the God of heaven, and pray for the life of the king, and of his sons." When the remnants of Israel returned to their homeland, they were given permission by King Cyrus to rebuild the temple. However, the discouraged Israelites due to opposition and affliction in the land stopped rebuilding for a while. God's prophets Haggai and Zechariah challenged and encouraged them to resume work. King Darius issued a decree to allow them to continue building (Ezra 6). He decreed the priests to resume their duties, including sacrificing to the Lord and praying for the king and his sons. The pagan king knew the importance and value of prayer. Prayer is not a spiritual exercise for only Christians. In fact, prayer has been commonly practiced by people who want to be connected to a god or spirit. It has been practiced by individuals or communities. It has taken various forms including certain rituals, hymn songs, or spontaneous utterances. I have seen people praying in various places like fields, on rocks, in mountains, in private prayer rooms, or even on planes. I have seen various groups from Christians to witch doctors praying. It reminds me of three simple but important truths about prayer and praying people. (1) Man has an innate sense of his dependence on higher beings. Thus, prayer is not an outcome of religious teachings. We do not pray because we have learnt to pray. Instead, we may say that prayer is almost like a spontaneous response within us to certain conditions or situations. (2) Man's desire to pray is an indication that man is a spiritual being. (3) Man does not believe in his self-sufficiency. The idea of man's self-sufficiency is a product of secular and humanistic education. Suppose that we leave people alone without any influences. Then, see whether they will make any spiritual pursuit or not. We know that every tribe and every civilization has had its religious and spiritual practices. Some people may say that being spiritual or religious is an outcome of brain washing by religious groups. Some people say Christians are bad influences to the minds of people. Thus, some psychologists and psychotherapists say the Christian faith is evil. Even before Abraham was called by God in Genesis 12, his ancestors were already idol worshippers. There was no time when man felt his sufficiency without God. King Darius, though he was a conquering king, asked the remnants in Israel to pray for him and his sons. This must be an encouragement for us to pray even more. After all, we are serving the God of the Bible, the true and unique God. If pagans pray to their unknown gods or goddesses, the products of their minds, why do we not pray to God who has revealed Himself to his people more fervently?

Fourteenth, when the children of God suffered, the godly prayed. Nehemiah prayed for his countrymen. Nehemiah 1:4, "And it came to pass, when I heard these words, that I sat down and wept, and mourned certain days, and fasted, and prayed before the God of heaven." Having heard from Hanani and others about Jerusalem and the people in Israel, Nehemiah prayed. (1) There were a few things accompanying his prayers. He wept, mourned and fasted. His prayer with mourning continued for a few days. Nehemiah 1:5 says, "And said, I beseech thee, O LORD God of heaven, the great and terrible God, that keepeth covenant and mercy for them that love him and observe his commandments." (2) He prayed to the Lord who kept covenants.

(3) When Nehemiah prayed, he demonstrated his personal and inner relationship with the Lord. He mentioned that God preserves the ones who loves Him and observes His commandments. Then, he said in verse 6, "Let thine ear now be attentive, and thine eyes open, that thou mayest hear the prayer of thy servant, which I pray before thee now, day and night, for the children of Israel thy servants, and confess the sins of the children of Israel, which we have sinned against thee: both I and my father's house have sinned." (4) He prayed day and night. (5) He prayed for the children of Israel. (6) He confessed their sins. Nehemiah had a good job and comforts in a foreign land, but he did not forget his suffering people in Israel. This must give us at least two lessons: (a) We ought to remember our fellow believers in pain and suffering. Their suffering may be both physical and spiritual. They may be hungry or persecuted. (b) We ought to be loyal and patriotic citizens of our countries. We should pray for our countries and their leaders. When there is no reliable government, the whole nation suffers. We have seen it in so many places. Some countries do not have strong governments, while some countries have strong but corrupt governments. Whatever the case is, when there is not an honest and efficient government, people suffer. Thus, we need to pray for our governments. (7) He identified himself with the suffering people in his homeland through his prayer. I do not want to close this paragraph without making an application for every one of us. If what I have said is correct, then we need to ask a question: are we praying for fellow believers in suffering? What have we done for them?

Fifteenth, prayer is for holy causes. Nehemiah 1:11, "O Lord, I beseech thee, let now thine ear be attentive to the prayer of thy servant, and to the prayer of thy servants, who desire to fear thy name: and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day, and grant him mercy in the sight of this man. For I was the king's cupbearer." Some people misunderstand that prayer is a means to meet an end, whatever the end may be. Let me suppose that a thief prays for his successful business tonight, a gambler for prosperous gambling, and a heavy drinker for good health. It is an honor to pray to God. However, if we know that our prayers are to be heard by God, who is holy and righteous, we also need to know that our prayers must be offered in a holy and righteous manner. When Nehemiah prayed, he called himself God's servant, and also he was one of the people who desired to fear the name of the Lord. As for such people, Nehemiah prayed to the Lord to prosper them. In his prayer, Nehemiah's thoughts were very clear and specific. He wanted to see his king and talk to him about his desire for the king. However, making this request was precarious as an officer before the king. Thus, he asked the Lord for His mercy on him so that his king might show him special favor. Nehemiah did not risk his life for his own profit, but for the benefit of his own people. It was a holy cause. We do not pray for evil and wicked gains. Prayer is not made to the holy God in order to fulfill our evil purposes. Thus praying people ought to examine themselves too. It is no wonder that the praying ones are also the godly and spiritual ones.

Sixteenth, we pray for any moment as needs arise. Nehemiah 2:4, "Then the king said unto me, For what dost thou make request? So I prayed to the God of heaven." As Nehemiah prayed, the Lord gave him an opportunity to speak to the king. The king saw his sad and sorrowful face in 2:2 and asked him a reason why, which opened a door of opportunity for Nehemiah to speak to the king of his wishes. He was supposed to give a best and precise answer on the spot in the presence of the king. Nehemiah did not hesitate to give his answers, but in that very critical moment he did not forge to pray. Probably, he was able to make such spontaneous and silent prayer on that very moment because prayer was constant and it was his custom to pray for everything.

Lovingly,
Your Pastor
